Dear Colleagues,

We are pleased to share news that UCLA Health has once again been recognized as an employer of choice, which is an important foundation to attracting and retaining employees committed to providing extraordinary patient care.

Becker's Hospital Review recently named UCLA Health among the 150 Top Places to Work in Healthcare | 2019. The list focuses on hospitals, health systems and health care companies that promote employee engagement and professional growth, support diversity within the workforce and offer benefits and opportunities for employees to build successful careers.

Our professional development programs, respectful work environment and diversity and inclusion initiatives are essential to ensuring that we have dedicated and experienced team members essential to the compassionate care that is our hallmark.

We are proud of UCLA Health's talented employees, who every day demonstrate their expertise, collaboration and commitment.

Thank you for all that you do.

Johnese Spisso, MPA            Susi Takeuchi
President, UCLA Health         Chief Human Resources Officer
CEO,UCLA Hospital System       UCLA Health