Pregnancy in kidney or liver transplant recipients is associated with obstetrical risks and complications that are important for informed decision making and antepartum and delivery management.