June 24th- Cynthia Fox talks with retired Marine Corps. Veteran Brent Calender. Brent was deployed to Iraq and when he was coming back from a mission they were ambushed, he was then shot by a sniper and ejected from the vehicle. He talks about his story and how he thought there was no way his back pain would ever go away without pain pills. That's when his wife called Operation Mend at UCLA and the doctor informed him that there was a surgery that could make his pain go away. Within a few hours of his outpatient surgery he was able to stand up straight. Operation Mend is an organization where top of the line doctors donate their time to help those who have served.
