

ABOUT Theodoric (Rick) Huang:

Rick has been with UCLA since February 2015, as a volunteer in Surgical Pathology. Last year he began to work in the Translational Pathology Core Laboratory (TPCL) as a Clerk (Lab Assistant).

Rick exhibits many of the Cultural North Star Elements. Rick does “what’s right” by ensuring workplace policies and rules are always followed. He “makes things better” by always showing up eager to work and not sit idle. Rick is always honest and listens to those around him and is not afraid to ask questions. Rick shows his commitment to our institution by communicating clearly with staff about the work he has been assigned and eagerly awaits new tasks. He is consistently eager to work and is very efficient and detail oriented.

Quotes from Rick’s Colleagues:

“Rick is such a pleasant person to work with. He never complains and just strives to do his very best when performing tasks at work. He is definitely an asset to the TPCL.”

“Rick is a happy person, always wants to do something, tries his best and takes advantage of any minute to work.”

“Rick is very diligent and careful in executing his work tasks in the lab. He is meticulous, precise and fast in completing his specific work assignments (pulling slides and blocks). He is always willing to lend a helping hand and he is always helpful towards his colleagues and requesters.”

August 2020

EMPLOYEE OF THE MONTH

Rick’s Qualities:

- ◆ Hard worker
- ◆ Efficient
- ◆ Diligent – gets the job done

Outside of Work:

- ◆ Enjoys watching sports and listening to music
- ◆ Participating in dance classes
- ◆ Traveling and taking walks