

OG257.01 – Reproductive Health Elective at UCLA

Course Objectives:

1. Gain an understanding of the common reproductive health issues facing men and women.
2. Gain experience in counseling regarding all methods of contraception and abortion.
3. Observe and participate in all forms of care for induced and spontaneous abortion.
4. Learn team care approach in management of high-risk patients needing reproductive health care.
5. Perform basic reproductive health examinations and procedures.
6. Screen and treat common STI in both men and women.
7. Practice holistic approach to family planning health care including the assessment of social determinants of health for marginalized individuals.
8. Identify and address systemic barriers to health and well-being during reproductive health care.