

UCLA Anesthesiology and Perioperative Medicine invites you to its

Visiting Student Scholarship Program

Students with a commitment to fostering workforce diversity in healthcare are encouraged to apply, in particular, those from groups underrepresented in medicine and/or interested in working with underserved populations.

Benefits include:

- Financial reimbursement for travel and housing up to $2,000
- Exposure to UCLA's rigorous clinical academic environment
- Opportunities to work with current Anesthesiology residents, residency program leadership and other nationally-recognized clinical faculty

Program Description

This Visiting Student Scholarship Program (VSSP) is intended to provide financial support to fourth-year U.S. medical students with an interest in fostering workforce diversity in healthcare and in completing a UCLA Anesthesiology Elective. The goal of the program is to promote student interest in applying to UCLA Department of Anesthesiology &

Perioperative Medicine (DAPM) Residency Program by exposing these students to UCLA's welcoming and dynamic clinical academic environment.
